It was thru the cooperative efforts of Mrs. Fred Vineyard's niece, Mrs. J. W. Phillips, Knoxville, Tennessee that the compiler was able to obtain most of the data on Robert Gaines Jr. and his family in East Tennessee.

Thus, the purpose of this compilation is to set the records straight and for the first time to present the descendants of Robert Gaines Jr. The compiler wants it to be known that he does not pretend to be an authority on Gaines Family genealogy and outside of the research on Robert Gaines, wife Mildred Bohannon, the remainder of this work is the result of data furnished to the compiler principally by Miss Mary R. Riley and Dr. John A. Kelly.

EARLY HISTORY OF THE GAINES FAMILY IN WALES

For the early history of the Gaines Family, the data of Major Richard V. Gaines of Virginia is generally accepted as being authentic though his documentary proof is somewhat questionable by some. The integrity and sincerity of the Major, however, assures even the most dubious one, that his data is a true picture of what he found with respect to the Gaines Family. Major Gaines maintains that a family lineage was traced in an unbroken line back to the earliest known period as early as the 5th century to BRYCHAN-King of Wales. From the data uncovered it seems that many of their great rulers from that time down to the last King of Wales, 1240, were of that family. Among the descendants of BRYCHAN are Beli, the Great, Emperor of Great Britain; Saint David, patron Saint of Wales; Roderick, the Great, from whom descended King George V of England; Howel the Good, who prepared the first system of civil law in the British Realm; Cradoc, the historian; David-ap-Gwillam, father of Welsh poetry; Llewellyn the Great, the last and probably greatest of Welsh kings (1194-1240). From Howel, the Good is traced David-ap-Llewellyn, later known as David Gam. He entered the military service of King Henry V with the three foot archers from BRECON Wales and followed the king in his invasion of France in 1415. By his personal daring and courage on the Field of Agincourt (1415) he saved the life of King Henry V only to become himself mortally wounded. He was knighted by the king before he died as Sir David "Gam". Gam was his nickname on account of a squint in his eyes. Thus appeared the origin of the name Gaines. The name Gam endured through two generations, later "es" was added which formed Games and was adhered to in Wales, but in England it became Ganes, Gaynes, and finally Gaines. On the other hand according to Harrison's "Surnames of the United Kingdom" the name Gaines is a derivative from the surname Gain or Gains, which originated in the Anglo-Saxon personal name Gagn or Gen as seen in Ge(g)nesburh or Gainsborough meaning Ge(g)n's Strong hold.

One of the most common ways in which Welsh surnames were formed was by use of the father's baptismal name on the son's surname. Naturally this meant that the last name would usually change from generation to generation since the baptismal name would differ between father and son. The prefix "Ap" or "Ab" which means "son of" would precede the father's personal name,

EARLY HISTORY OF THE GAINES FAMILY IN VIRGINIA

The following early grants to members of the Gaines Family are recorded in the Virginia Land Grant Register. Thomas Gaines 1030 acres in old Rappahannock County in 1656 ; Daniel Gaines, Nicholas Willard, (sic), 1376 acres in Freshes of Rappahannock for transporting 28 persons, January 24, 1665 ; Robert Gaines, 186 acres in old Rappahannock for transporting 28 persons, January 24, 1665 ; Thomas Gaines, 28 acres in old Rappahannock, April 20, 1685 ; William Gaines, 240 acres in Lunenburg County, both sides of Hounds Creek, September 10, 1755 ; Francis Gaines, 318 acres in Culpeper County, November 12, 1756 ; William Gaines, 261 acres in Culpeper County, January 12, 1757 ; Hieram Gaines, 339 acres in Albemarle County, February 16, 1771.

In Goode's Virginia Cousins, page 470, he states that the Gaines immigrants settled probably in New Kent County but from the history of the early land grants it would indicate that they settled higher up in the mainlands. To more or less substantiate this, on page 290 of Goode's book, 'John Collier married Miss Gaines of a family early seated in King and Queen County.' To date there has been no satisfactory documented evidence uncovered of the relationship and the early descendants of these members of the Gaines Family in Virginia.

Many sources of data, however, indicate that all of the early Gaines in Virginia descended from Sir John Gaines (1559-1606), who was the great grandson of Morgan, son of Sir David Gam of Brecon, Wales. The children of Sir John Gaines were Catherine, Elizabeth, William, Thomas, Walter and John. (See Dwnn's Visitation of Wales, Vol. II, page 36). The Compendium of American Genealogy by Virkus, Vol. VI, page 776 states that a "Thomas Gaines (son of Sir John (1559-1606) came from Co., Brecon Wales, ante 1650, settled in Va." Also there was a gunner named Thomas Gaines on the 'Ark and Dove' to Maryland in 1634 (see Raskobs and Greene Record Book, page 95, Congressional Library, No. C571.R 225, Washington, D.C.). The relationship, if any, of the gunner named Thomas Gaines to any of the Virginia Gaines Families is not known. It is known that Thomas Gaines, son of Sir John Gaines, was the father of Robert, Thomas, James and Daniel Gaines. From Tennessee Cousins, page 263, "Daniel Gaines died 8/18/1692, leaving a will in old Rappahannock County, Virginia, witnessed by Wm. Morrour, John Catlett, Wm. Brown."

occupation for many years. During 1819 he resigned as Indian Factor and entered business in Demopolis. In 1830 he removed to Mobile to be a successful businessman and banker. He served in the State Legislature in 1861. "He was so loved by the Indians that they never undertook the commonest transaction of every day life without first securing his advice, which was always disinterested and reliable. He assisted in removing the Choctaw tribes to a home beyond the Mississippi after exploring the country with their leaders in 1829." Fine oil paintings of he and his wife are in the State archives at Montgomery, Ala. along with two hand written volumes, "Reminiscences of the Early History of the Mississippi Territory," these two volumes were presented to the state by his grandson, Dr. Vivian Pendleton Gaines.

Miss Mary R. Riley in a letter to the compiler stated that "I have a copy of an old letter (or notes from it) written in 1846 by Frank Young Gaines, son of George Strother Gaines; this letter was in the Mrs. J. B. Clotworthy's collection, and sent by me on to Mr. Trist Wood. It would certainly seem that Frank Young Gaines knew about his own brothers and sisters, so there must have been two girls: Elizabeth Ervin and Helen, instead of one named Helen Elizabeth. Dear Mrs. Strickland:

I appreciate the information. I have enclosed copies of the pages from the Bible I referred to in my letter. Maybe you can file them for use by someone else. I am also forwarding this information to Brother Jerome Lepre.

In some of my research I found a reference to a book called Gaines Genealogy, published in 1969 by a Calvin Suthered of Ft. Lauderdale Fl. in 1969. The local library tried through interlibrary loan and I tried through directory assistance hoping he might still be at that address but was unsuccessful. I was hoping you might have a source I reference to try and find this book. This book was referenced to in Mississippi Genealogical and Local History 1970 Page 113

Thanks for all your help.

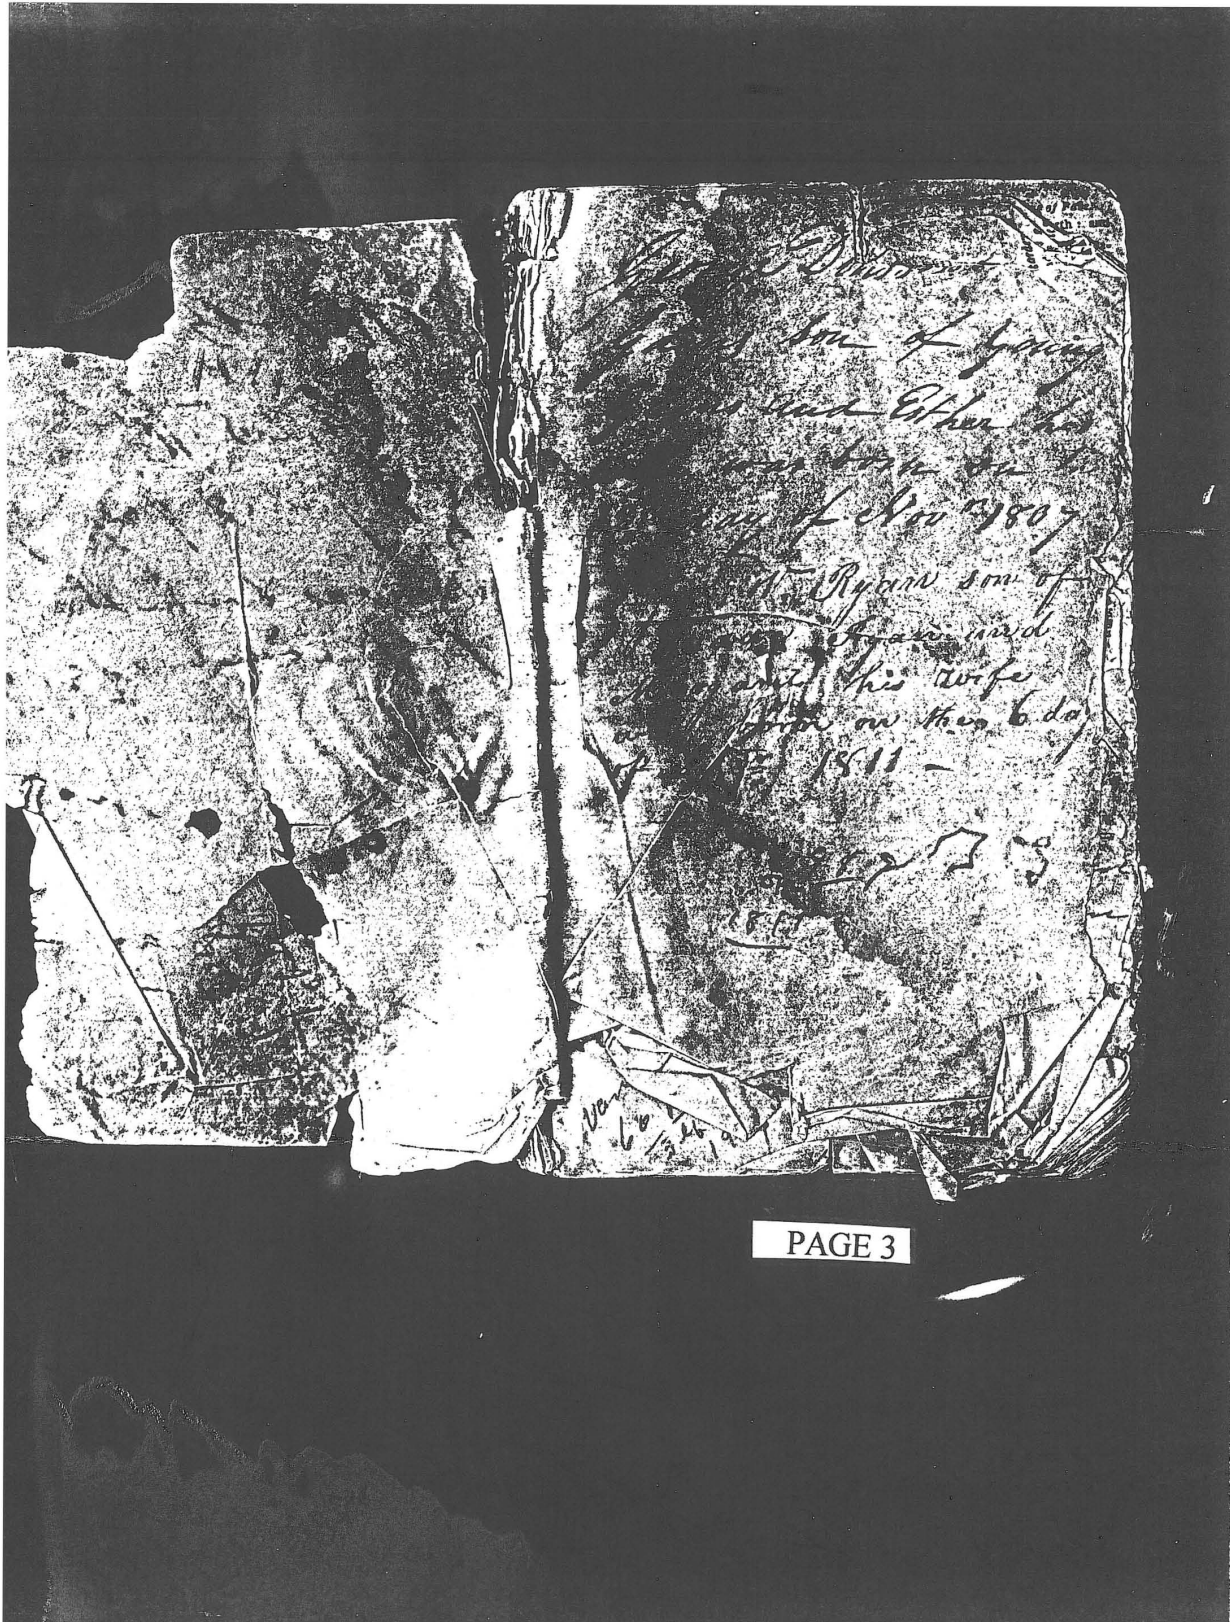

Sincerely,

Danny Ryan

Penny Gainey

Penny Gainey is the food and nutrition office manager at Singing River Hospital in Pascagoula. She has been working at the hospital for two years. "I love meeting people, working with patients, and seeing people from the community visit the cafeteria," she said. She and her husband, John, have lived in Gautier for four years. They have a dog named Holly that Gainey calls "our baby." Her husband is a member of the local band, Lighting Strike, and Gainey enjoys listening to him sing. She also enjoys fishing and spending time with family and friends.

Christian life helps Polly Gaines reach 104th birthday

When Polly Gaines celebrated her birthday on Feb. 15 of this year, she had seen an entire century plus four years pass by. Leading a good Christian life is what helped her make it this far, said the Wayne County woman.

A resident of the Holly Bush community, Mrs. Gaines hit milestone number 104 this year, earning her the position of being one of the oldest residents in Wayne County.

Mrs. Gaines lives with her daughter, Geneva Henry and her 81-year-old sister, Artesia Russell. Wayne General Home Health Nurse's Aide Vernice Powe comes out and checks on 'Miss Polly' three times a week.

Born in 1887 in Choctaw County, Ala., Mrs. Gaines moved to Wayne County when she married Dave Gaines in 1931.

Married for what Mrs. Gaines said was "a lot of years," she bragged on her late husband by saying he was "as good as they ought to be."

Mrs. Gaines was an active member and worker in the Holly Bush M.B. Church before being confined to a wheelchair.

A homemaker all of her life, Mrs. Gaines said she "prayed and tried to serve the Lord" and that's why she's been able to stay around so long.

Serving the Lord

Polly Gaines turned 104 years old on Feb. 15 and the Wayne County woman attributes her longevity to faithfulness in serving the Lord.
